

TRANSIENT VACATION RENTAL UNIT CONCERNS

The TVRU Ordinance was written and is administered as a set of basic requirements property owners must meet for licensing their properties as rental units. A number of items must be provided by the owners of rental properties including, but not limited to, bear proof trash containers/enclosures (or community dumpsters) and a minimum number of parking spaces. TVRU related concerns should be addressed to the appropriate rental property management company or property owner if a company does not manage the property. Any issues that are an immediate threat to life, contact law enforcement officials immediately.
