

Site Distance – A sign shall not be located as to obstruct or impair site distance at the intersection of any roadways. Sign placement shall allow for an unobstructed view of the intersections, traffic control devices, and a sufficient distance along intersecting roadways to permit drivers to anticipate and avoid potential collisions. (Reference: AASHTO Green Book).

Residential Subdivision Sign – A free-standing sign located on property owned or maintained as a common element by an association of property owners or homeowners identifying and located within one hundred (100) feet of the entrance to a residential subdivision.

Property Line – For the purposes of this Ordinance, property line shall mean the boundary line between adjacent properties or between a road right of way and an adjacent property. For purposes of this definition, the provisions of Section 2-114(a) of the Real Property Article shall not apply.
